FDR Training Reveals 60 Virtual Workshops and Sessions for Week-Long Event

Federal professionals will be able to access live and pre-recorded workshops and sessions addressing complex challenges and the Biden administration's new initiatives.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. – July 13, 2021 – FDR Training, the nation's leading federal training event attracting decision-makers from nearly every federal agency, announced today the updated robust program of virtual workshops and sessions covering a variety of topics including Alternative Dispute Resolution, EEO, Employee Relations, HR, Labor Relations, Legal Issues and much more.

FDR Training's virtual week-long event, starting August 16, 2021, features a program of 60 fully live and pre-recorded workshops and sessions addressing the latest regulations and best practices, including those stemming from the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as new policies under the Biden administration. Professionals who register for a Premium Pass will have access to everything on the virtual agenda including workshops and sessions that offer CEU/CLE and SHRM credits, and will be able to access all the content until November 19, 2021.

The annual attendee favorite Town Hall Conversations, with leaders from the EEOC, FLRA, FMCS, MSPB, OPM and OSC, will be held as fully live sessions. Other fully live trainings include:

- Putting Your Best Foot Forward: A Refresher for EEO Counselors and Investigators: This two-part workshop fulfills the eight-hour annual training requirement for EEO Counselors and Investigators.
- Is Your Agency Barrier Analysis Meeting the Mark?: This two-part workshop is designed to proactively address areas where agencies fall short and provide practical ideas for improvement.
- Telework, Leave, and Reassignment: Addressing Complex Accommodations Confidently: Professionals will learn to identify "essential functions" of a job to determine if leave, telework, and/or reassignment would be an effective accommodation.
- Conflict Coaching: A Highly Effective ADR Technique: This workshop will give professionals effective strategies to help coaches identify their role in the conflict and ways they can actively participate in the solution.
- Diversity Dialogues at Work: A Response to Societal Racial Injustice: Attendees will learn how the Securities and Exchange Commission successfully conducted their highly effective Diversity Dialogues in response to racial unrest in 2020.

Workshops and sessions span seven distinct tracks including Alternative Dispute Resolution, Attorney/Legal, cyberFEDS®, Equal Employment Opportunity, Human Resources, Labor Relations & Employee Relations and Town Hall Conversations. As a special focus this year, a majority of workshops and sessions in the EEO track meet the training mandate of President Biden's recent Executive Order on Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Accessibility in the Federal Workforce.

Additional session highlights include:

- Legal Ethics Training: Geared specifically for the needs of federal government lawyers, this fully live session will give attendees invaluable insights into the difference between being a zealous advocate and making arguments in the heat of litigation that may cross ethical and professional boundaries.
- Sexual Orientation, Gender Identity, and LGBTQ+ Inclusion in the Workplace: Presented by the Opening Keynote, Ryan Sallans, this session will include a live Q&A where attendees can ask questions relating to both the session and the opening keynote.
- cyberFEDS® Users Group: These sessions will ensure cyberFEDS® subscribers fully maximize the benefits of their subscription and give users dedicated training that no other event provides.

“Our virtual program is up to date with the most important Biden administration initiatives and priorities for the federal sector,” said Leslie Lake, Vice President, Federal Editorial, LRP Media Group. “Every week brings new developments that we are able to incorporate into the program.”
